

Social Media Plan:

You're not just a cycle tracking app.

1. Core Insight (this should guide everything)

You are:

👉 "The operating system for women to align life with their cycle"

Each persona maps to a different entry point:

- Sarah → productivity & optimization
- Emma → privacy & trust
- Lisa → pain relief & medical credibility
- Alex → performance & data

Your content strategy should reflect that multi-angle value, not just "cycle education".

2. Content Pillars (your 4 growth engines)

1. "Cycle = Superpower" (Mass Appeal / Viral)

Target: Sarah + Alex

Goal: Reach & shares

Content:

- "Stop scheduling important meetings during this phase"
- "Why you feel like a different person every week (it's not random)"
- "Your energy is predictable — here's how"

Formats:

- Reels / TikToks (primary)
 - Carousels (secondary)
-

2. "Fix Your Symptoms" (High Intent / Conversion)

Target: Lisa

Goal: Save & sign-ups

Content:

- "What actually helps with PMS (science-based)"

- "3 mistakes making your cramps worse"
- "Foods that reduce hormonal inflammation"

Formats:

- Carousels (saveable)
- Short videos with authority tone

3. "Private by Design" (Trust Differentiation)

Target: Emma

Goal: Differentiation + credibility

Content:

- "Why most cycle apps sell your data"
- "We built Syncycle to work offline — here's why"
- "What 'local-first' actually means"

Formats:

- Founder-style videos
- Minimalist carousels

👉 This is a huge opportunity — almost no competitors lean into this hard.

4. "Train & Work With Your Cycle" (Niche Authority)

Target: Alex + Sarah

Goal: Authority + partnerships

Content:

- "Best workouts per phase"
- "When to push vs recover"
- "Cycle syncing your work calendar"

Formats:

- Infographics
- Split-screen reels (phase comparisons)

3. Tone & Language (this is critical)

You need a very specific tone blend:

70%: Smart & empowering

- “Here’s what’s actually happening in your body”
- Not fluffy, not spiritual-only

20%: Relatable & human

- “why am I crying over nothing → luteal phase”
- Meme-light, but not cringe

10%: Opinionated

- “Most cycle apps get this wrong”
- “You don’t have low discipline — you have hormones”

👉 Especially important for differentiation.

4. Channels (focus, don’t spread thin)

Primary: TikTok + Instagram Reels

- Discovery engine
- Short-form, high volume

Secondary: Instagram (Carousels)

- Saves → algorithm boost
- Education & authority

Optional (later): LinkedIn

- For:
 - Women in tech / productivity angle (Sarah)
 - Founder story
 - This could actually perform well given your background
-

5. Posting Frequency (realistic but effective)

If you're early-stage:

- 4–5 posts/week total
 - 3 short-form videos
 - 1–2 carousels

If you want aggressive growth:

- 1 video/day (ideal)

👉 Consistency > perfection

6. Content Formats That Will Actually Work

1. Hook-driven short videos

Examples:

- "This is why your productivity crashes every month"
- "You're not lazy — you're in this phase"

Structure:

1. Strong hook (first 2 seconds)
 2. Insight
 3. Actionable takeaway
 4. CTA
-

2. Saveable carousels

Examples:

- "Cycle syncing 101"
- "What to eat in each phase"

Goal:

👉 Saves = growth signal

3. "POV" / Relatable content

- "POV: follicular phase vs luteal phase"
 - "When your calendar doesn't match your cycle"
-

4. Authority content

- Slightly more serious tone
 - Builds trust for Lisa & Emma
-

7. Growth Loops (this is what most people miss)

Loop 1: Education → Save → Follow

- Carousels that people revisit

Loop 2: Relatability → Share → Viral

- "this is so me" content

Loop 3: Pain → Solution → Download

- PMS / symptom content

Loop 4: Controversy → Comments → Reach

- "Why most tracking apps are broken"
-

8. Messaging Angles by Persona (very tactical)

Sarah (Productivity)

- "Plan your week like this"
- "Your best days for deep work"

Emma (Privacy)

- "No cloud. No tracking. Your data stays yours."
- "Built for people who don't trust apps"

Lisa (Pain)

- "Finally understand your symptoms"
- "Track what actually matters"

Alex (Performance)

- "Train smarter, not harder"
 - "Optimize your cycle like your workouts"
-

9. CTA Strategy (don't be generic)

Avoid:

✗ "Download now"

Use:

- "Start syncing your life with your cycle"
 - "Try it for your next cycle"
 - "See your next week differently"
-

10. Example Weekly Plan

Monday: Reel (Productivity hook)

Tuesday: Carousel (Cycle education)

Wednesday: Reel (Relatable POV)

Thursday: Reel (Symptoms / pain)

Friday: Carousel (Workout / nutrition guide)

11. One Honest Pushback

Right now, most apps in your space fail because:

👉 They are too "soft wellness" or too "clinical"

Your opportunity:

Be the bridge between science, performance, and real life

If you nail that tone, you'll stand out fast.

Recurring formats

1. "Train with your cycle" (Fitness Friday)

Theme: Performance optimization

Content ideas:

- "Best workouts per phase"
- "When to push vs when to rest"
- "Your strength is not random"

Videos

2. Nutrition

- mood, tips, content sliders (carousels)
- phase essentials

3. General cycle education

- Video
- Graphics (4 phases)
- mood / tips

Where does the data come from/ how do we train the algorithm/ where is it stored/ how do we improve your insights

To-Do's

- KPIs
- Canva Templates
- Content Calendar